

Frank Laisch's Bio

For the past two decades, Frank Laisch has worked extensively with Real Estate, Title agencies, and Mortgage companies across the United States. He has founded and managed several insurance agencies, and is licensed to write insurance in 48 states, providing risk management solutions for the real estate industry and professional liability insurance for real estate and title agents.

Frank started teaching Real estate CE classes in Florida in 2014 while working for several Title Insurance Companies providing risk management for their clients. He has been approved to teach CE classes in Florida, Texas, Illinois, Oklahoma, New York, and the Carolinas.

He has spoken at hundreds of seminars for Real Estate agents & Title Insurance agents on Professional Liability claims and protecting independent agencies on their professional liability exposure.

Frank has worked with International real estate franchises, providing risk management & ensuring their offices and agents are properly insured. His extensive public speaking experience at Local Board of Realtors, WCR (Woman's Council of Realtors) and numerous events on Professional liability exposure and protecting yourself from liability claims.

Frank has over 20 years of sales and public speaking experience that dates back to 1990. He served as a recruiter for the Marine Corps where he served for 6 years. While in the Marine Corps. Frank attended Sand Diego state University and studied Marketing.